WORLD LANGUAGE COURSE SEQUENCE CHARTS

Students beginning a world language at the high school:

Incoming freshmen with a minimum of three years of French or Spanish:

The World Language Department offers sequences in French, Latin and Spanish. We strongly recommend that students consider their study of language at Bedford High School as a part of a long-term commitment to becoming proficient in at least one language other than English. We believe all students can learn another language and will need to participate in a global society. It is our mission to help them develop their communicative abilities and cultural awareness. In modern language courses, students engage in real-world communication tasks and explore commonalities and differences among global cultures. In classical language courses, students work toward analyzing authentic materials from the ancient world and exploring its impact on our language and world.

World Language courses are designed for students who take them as a second or third language. Native or heritage speakers of French and Spanish who wish to study their own language must submit writing and speaking samples to determine if they would benefit from a course in this language. Students should see the World Language Program Director to complete the writing and speaking tasks before the course registration deadline.
